DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

Mission: The English Department facilitates the rigorous study of literature and writing through Christian perspectives on ethics, imagination, diversity, and truth; informed analysis of creative literature, and advanced strategies and techniques of written communication, rhetorical analysis, aesthetic appreciation, and literary theory. The English Department promotes spiritual development through the integration of faith and learning.

English majors may choose one of two emphases within the major: literature and textual analysis or writing. The English curriculum provides a single-subject matter program approved by the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing. A minor in English is also offered.

Programs

- English B.A. (https://catalog.vanguard.edu/college/english/english-ba/)
- English Minor (https://catalog.vanguard.edu/college/english/english-minor/)
- English Subject Matter Preparation (Teaching Credential) (https://catalog.vanguard.edu/college/english/english-teaching-credential/)

Courses

ENGL-110 Vanguard Foundations of College Writing I 3 Credits
Foundations for exposition and argument at the college level. This course offers instruction in the fundamental skills of college writing with a focus on reading, critical thinking, grammar, spelling, punctuation, and paragraph writing. The course emphasizes developing these skills through reading, writing, revision and editing, research, and mechanics. Students who pass the class with a ‘C’ may enroll in ENGL-120C. Students who pass the class with a ‘B’ or better may enroll in ENGL-220C.

ENGL-115 Foundations for College Writing II 3 Credits
Exposition and argument at the college level. The course emphasizes academic writing conventions through the writing process, mechanics, revising and editing, with a specific emphasis on critical thinking and logical argumentation. Course must be passed with a ‘C’ or better to enroll in ENGL-220 (meets English Composition requirement)

ENGL-120C Persuasive Writing 3 Credits
Exposition and argument at the college level. The course emphasizes writing, revising and editing, reading, research skills, and mechanics. Course must be passed with a ‘C’ (not ‘C-’) or better to enroll in ENGL-220C. Some students may be placed in supplementary writing lab (ENGL-120CL) to support their transition from high school to college-level writing. Students with an Evidence-Based Reading and Writing SAT score of 610 or higher or an ACT score of 25 or higher may place out of this course into ENGL-220C.

ENGL-120CL Persuasive Writing Lab 1 Credit
This one unit is designed to support students enrolled in ENGL-120C as they transition from high school to college-level writing. The lab provides a space for students to engage with the foundational concepts introduced in ENGL-120C, such as developing a writing process, understanding rhetorical situations, and crafting sound arguments, all within a small-group, workshop setting.
Co-Requisite: ENGL-120C

ENGL-220 Researched Writing 3 Credits
Interpretive and analytic writing, including several problem-solving research-based essays investigating topics related to class themes. The course emphasizes writing, revising and editing, reading, analytical skills, and computer technology (word processing, Internet research) and reinforces those skills learned in ENGL-115. Must be passed with a ‘C’ or better to fulfill the core curriculum requirement. (meets English Composition requirement)
Prerequisite: ENGL-120C.

ENGL-220C Researched Writing 3 Credits
Interpretive and analytic writing, including several problem-solving research-based papers investigating topics related to class themes. The course emphasizes writing, revising and editing, reading, analytical skills, and computer technology (word processing, Internet research) and reinforces those skills learned in ENGL-120C. Taught in the computer lab. Must be passed with a ‘C’ (not ‘C-’) or better to fulfill the core curriculum requirement. Students may receive credit for ENGL-220C by taking research and writing courses offered by departments other than English that meet standards set and approved by the Core Curriculum Committee.
Prerequisite: ENGL-120C

ENGL-230 Literary Perspectives 3 Credits
Introduces the student to a variety of literary genres as well as diverse authors, cultures, and experiences. This course also covers the tools and concepts necessary to the understanding and interpretation of literature. Students engage in classroom discussion, write papers, and take a variety of quizzes and exams. (meets Humanities/Literature/Fine Arts requirement)

ENGL-230C Literature and the Human Experience 3 Credits
Introduces the student to a variety of literary genres as well as diverse authors, cultures, and experiences. This course also covers the tools and concepts necessary to the understanding and interpretation of literature. Students engage in classroom discussion, write papers, and take a variety of quizzes and exams. This course is designed for non-English majors and is not to be taken by English majors as a substitute for ENGL-240C.
Prerequisite: ENGL-120C

ENGL-235 Introduction to Journalism 3 Credits
Fundamentals of news reporting, including interviewing, quoting, paraphrasing, inverted triangle, and sourcing stories. Students are introduced to multiple journalism genres, including: news stories, opinions, features, profiles, and reviews.
Prerequisite: ENGL-120C
ENGL-240C Foundations/Literary Study 3 Credits
Introductory course for the English major covering the tools and concepts necessary to the understanding and interpretation of literature. This course is a prerequisite for all upper division courses in English and must be taken prior to or concurrent with the other courses in the major. All English majors are required to take ENGL-240C as a substitution for ENGL-230C the core curriculum requirement in literature. Prerequisite: ENGL-120C

ENGL-260 Monsters and Maidens: British Lit 1785 3 Credits
A historical survey of English prose, poetry, and drama, from Beowulf to the Neo-Classic period. This course involves classroom discussion, quizzes, tests, papers, and group presentations using computer aided support and other graphics to illustrate results of library research on each group's assigned author or topic. (Formerly Survey of British Literature I)

ENGL-262 Romanticism/Resistance: British Lit 1785 3 Credits
A historical survey of English prose, poetry, and drama, from the Romantic period to the present. This course involves classroom discussion, quizzes, tests, papers, and group presentations using computer aided support and other graphics to illustrate results of library research on each group's assigned author or topic. Non-English majors may receive credit for ENGL-230C by taking this course as a substitute (Formerly Survey of British Literature II)

ENGL-309 Awakenings: Voices in American Lit 3 Credits
A historical survey of American prose, poetry, and drama from the Puritans to the present. This course features tests that speak to the many ways that its characters awaken to the benefits and constraints associated with the new world. This course involves classroom discussion, quizzes, tests, papers and presentations, and it fulfills the departmental requirement for American Literature.

ENGL-315 Teaching English in a Multicultural Setting 3 Credits
Students seeking to complete the subject matter program in English must take this class as part of that program to ensure that they are integrating literary content with their pedagogical experience. This course provides the philosophical background and classroom experience necessary to introduce a person to the teaching profession in a public or private school in a multicultural environment. The purpose of the class is to assist the student to gain an understanding of the resources and challenges facing a teacher serving a linguistically and culturally diverse student population. Discussion will focus on the major professional organizations and educational research related to the philosophical, historical, and demographic developments of American education. Students will complete a 30 hour field work component to observe classroom management and organization. (Speaking Assumed)

ENGL-315L Teaching English in a Multicultural Setting 1 Credit
Students seeking to complete the subject matter program in English must take this lab as a co-requisite to ENGL-315 Teaching English in a Multicultural Setting to ensure that they are integrating literacy content with their pedagogical experience. The lab focuses on specific pedagogical tasks and observations designed to orient the student toward teaching English at the junior high and high school levels. Students should plan on meeting with the lab instructor several times during the semester and will complete at least five assignment online. Co-Requisite: ENGL-315

ENGL-319 Publications: Newspaper 1-3 Credits
Members of the class constitute the editorial staff of the college newspaper. Class meets weekly for critique on news reporting, writing, editing, makeup, and production of the campus newspaper. May be repeated for a maximum of six units. Prerequisite: ENGL-235

ENGL-325 Period Focus: 3 Credits
The study of the literary output of a particular period. The period will vary according to the instructor, but the class might cover the literature of Romanticism, Modernism, the Medieval period, the Eighteenth Century, or the Latin American Boom. May be repeated for credit.

ENGL-335 Genre Focus: 3 Credits
The study of the development and variations of a particular literary form. The genre will vary according to the instructor, but the class might cover the novel, short story, poetry, or autobiography. May be repeated for credit.

ENGL-336 Theopoetics 3 Credits
Theopoetics can be defined as 'the study and practice of making God known through text' (keef-Perry, 579). This course will explore how artists have attempted to 'make God known' throughout a broad range of writing in English. Although poets do not write theology, they do use language to describe how theology and theological experience is understood by the individual in his or her own unique cultural context. The focus of this class will be upon shorter, lyric works, the drama, and short story. Non-English majors may receive credit for ENGL-230C by taking this course as a substitute.

ENGL-340 Children's Literature 3 Credits
Reading and evaluating literature written especially for children and young adults-includes a historical as well as a genre approach.

ENGL-350 Creative Writing 3 Credits
Students learn and implement the basic techniques and theory specific to the three genres: fiction, poetry, and drama. Lecture and workshop combined. Prerequisite: ENGL-220C

ENGL-360 Dramatic Lit: Script Analysis 3 Credits
This course introduces the student to history's most influential stage and screen plays giving the student skills with which to analyze critically the script in order to understand the work of each playwright. Lab fee.
ENGL-375 The Art of the Memoir 3 Credits
This advanced composition course is designed to acquaint students with a wide range of classical and contemporary strategies for writing purposeful and persuasive prose. It also equips students with options for personal narration and reflection to create a storyline out of life experience. Students cast themselves as compelling characters through concrete exercises and studies in successful memoir models of craft and form.

ENGL-384 Digital Storytelling 3 Credits
This class explores the interactivity and narrative of digital media through the creation of audio and video projects. Students will learn to think creatively about digital storytelling and the class will offer hand-on experiences in video and podcast production. May be repeated one time for credit.

ENGL-424 American Diversity 3 Credits
Students will gain exposure to historically marginalized groups in America by studying fiction and nonfiction traditionally overlooked in the American literature canon. Students will examine how systems of power and privilege operate in the United States and gain a critical understanding of human dignity in our diverse contemporary society. Prerequisite: ENGL-120C

ENGL-425 Author Focus: 3 Credits
The intensive study of the literary achievement of a single author. Content will vary according to instructor, but might include Margaret Atwood, Jorge Luis Borges, William Faulkner, James Joyce, C. S. Lewis, Clarice Lispector, John Milton, Toni Morrison, J. R. R. Tolkien, or Mark Twain. May be repeated for credit.

ENGL-428 Travel Writing 3 Credits
This course is designed to introduce the creative writer to the genre of travel writing. Students will develop and apply critical vocabulary through in-class discussion and critique, and submit at least one piece of writing for professional publication.

ENGL-433 Global Voices: World Literature 3 Credits
An examination of the contours of international literature, including classical Western mythology plus European, African, Asian, and Latin American literature from antiquity up to the present. This course fulfills the departmental requirement for world literature. Non-English majors may receive credit for ENGL-230C by taking this course as a substitute.

ENGL-437 Advanced Journalism 3 Credits
Students hone their reporting and newswriting skills, including interviewing, researching public records, fact-checking and covering spot news, speeches, court cases, public meetings, and other hard news. This class includes numerous in-class and out-of-classroom reporting and writing assignments.

ENGL-438 Creative Writing Workshop 3 Credits
The theory and practice of writing a particular literary genre. Genre will vary according to the instructor, but might include screenwriting, poetry, or the short story. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: ENGL-220C

ENGL-442 Playwriting 3 Credits
Development of scriptwriting techniques as applied to stage and film. The student will be required to develop and write a one-act stage or screen play. Lab fee.

ENGL-443 Creative Nonfiction 3 Credits
This is a course for writers who have a committed interest in creative non-fiction, such as personal essay, literary journalism, science writing, memoir, and other non-fiction genres, and are comfortable writing longer works of prose. Students will work cooperatively to share and improve each other’s work in a workshop setting. Prerequisite: ENGL-220C

ENGL-444 Culture Focus: 3 Credits
The specialized study of the creative expression of a particular cultural group, including written, oral, visual, musical, and performative creative traditions. Content will vary according to instructor, but might include Women writers, African American literature, Asian American, Native American literature, or the literature of Ireland, with commensurate critical approaches. May be repeated for credit.

ENGL-450 Internship: Teaching English 1-3 Credits
The student selects and attends the sessions of ENGL-120C, ENGL-220C, or ENGL-230C course; meets with the instructor to prepare for class sessions; teaches a few sessions; discusses in retrospect the conduct of the class; agrees upon criteria for grading papers and other evaluation of students. May be repeated for a maximum of six units with a different instructor or a different course. Open to students with senior class standing and with a GPA of 3.0 or higher. Prerequisite: ENGL-240C

ENGL-451 Internship: Writing 1-3 Credits
Actual work experience in a business firm, academic program, publishing industry, or other professional setting as a writer, providing an opportunity for the practical application of student writing, editing, or multimedia skills under direct supervision. Reports to the supervising professor are required. Students are required to work thirty hours for each academic unit hour received. May be repeated to a maximum of six units. Course is open to students with Sophomore, Junior, or Senior class standing and with a GPA of 3.0 or higher. Prerequisite: ENGL-240C

ENGL-453 Language, Culture/Linguistics 3 Credits
This course surveys the acquisition and use of language within a cultural context. It examines the relationship of language to culture, language acquisition, and language analysis or linguistics, emphasizing the utility of such knowledge for educators. Stress is given to understanding language’s reciprocal relation with culture, the nature of language systems, and linguistic analysis to enable educators a better comprehension of second language acquisition within learning environments. Prerequisite: ANTH-102C

ENGL-455 Shakespeare through the Ages 3 Credits
An in-depth survey of Shakespeare’s major works within the historical and cultural context of the Renaissance. This investigation of his oeuvre includes the close reading of tragedies, comedies, romances and history plays with an eye towards the ways in which he revolutionized genre. This course involves class discussion, quizzes, texts, papers and performance, and it fulfills the departmental required for Shakespeare.
ENGL-458 Digital Writing and Design  3 Credits
In this course, students will prepare for the types of digital writing and design required in today's job market and learn to use digital tools to write for diverse audiences on various platforms. Students will produce resumes, personal websites, and online portfolios to showcase their academic and professional experiences, and they will collaborate
on contemporary professional writing projects such as social media campaigns, content marketing, and visual data creation.

ENGL-460 Digital Writing and Design  3 Credits
In this course, students will prepare for the types of digital writing and design required in today's job market and learn to use digital tools to write for diverse audiences on various platforms. Students will produce resumes, personal websites, and online portfolios to showcase their academic and professional experiences, and they will collaborate
on contemporary professional writing projects such as social media campaigns, content marketing, and visual data creation.

ENGL-464 Thematic Focus:  3 Credits
The in-depth comparative study of a particular literary theme or topic from several perspectives. Texts may be chosen from a variety of genres including prose, poetry, drama, and theory; they may also come from differing cultures and periods. Content will vary according to instructor but might include Christianity, translation studies, deconstruction, or feminist thought.

ENGL-465 Becoming a Reader: Theory/Crit of Lit  3 Credits
A historical survey of literary theory from the time of Plato to the contemporary era. Various writing projects are designed to assist students in their development as scholarly researchers. This course fulfills the departmental requirement for literary theory.

ENGL-470 Special Topic:  1-3 Credits Study of a special topic, focusing upon a literary period, genre, and/or author(s). May be repeated for credit.

ENGL-472 Media Ethics  3 Credits
Students will study the role of journalism in a democratic society and develop an understanding of ethical questions faced by journalists.
Topics will include: freedom of the press, ethics, law and public policy, global media, and alternative journalism.

ENGL-480 Individual Studies:  1-3 Credits

ENGL-486 Adv Research Methods  3 Credits
Students will develop advanced techniques in literary research including computerized research, textual analysis, scholarly methodology and bibliography.

ENGL-489 C.S. Lewis II  3 Credits
Further study of the writings of C.S. Lewis emphasizing his articulation and defense of the Christian faith.

ENGL-499C Synecdoche: Capstone  3 Credits
This course is designed to serve as a rite of passage for graduating seniors through their service as the editorial board for Synecdoche, the English department's literary journal, and the submission of a portfolio of the student's four years of work as an English major. This course fulfills the Core Curriculum Capstone requirement for English majors.